New fashion statement? Glittery cast makes girl's eyes sparkle again

When 6-year-old Emily Cavallaro of Freehold was treated at the CentraState Pediatric ER for a broken arm, she was very upset and depressed. Dr. Alan Nasar, the father of four young children and the orthopedist who is treating Emily, found a way to bring the sparkle back in Emily's eyes. He put glitter on her cast.

Dr. Nasar, a board-certified orthopedic surgeon at Advanced Orthopedics and Sports Medicine Institute, Freehold, says, "No matter how old or young you are, it's very upsetting to break a bone. I kept thinking about my own children and what might cheer them up."

Sue Cavallaro, Emily's mom, says that Emily's glittery cast definitely put the sparkle back in Emily's eyes. "Nobody has ever seen a glittery cast before and that it has been a big hit."

The Advanced Orthopedics and Sports Medicine Institute (AOSMI) is an orthopedic practice at Pond View Professional Park, 1101 W. Main St., Freehold, that provides advanced medical care. The six physicians at AOSMI have a combined 100 years of experience. For more information,
